he thought the time ripe for assigning a generous share of evide for the care to sign to a man for whom the completion of a new hospital will mean the realization of a long-cherished desire. He mentioned Fr. E. Langley. Superintends of the ment of the superior in the pull-together spirit that entered into the ment of the m minand to-night.

Mr. Fencil Well Pleased.

'The last speaker was Mr. Fencil. Only a moment or two before the audience lad a chance to voice in no mistakable tones their appreciation of his help and as he arcose to address them for the last time the noise of a pin-fall would have been audible. "We've done a monumental service," said the director. "When our work is over and this circle has dimmed, it shall stand, and those of the third and fourth generation shall rise to call us blessed. A hospital will live on forever and by your good works you are to be known to those who in the future are to beeneft thereby." Mr. Fencil spoke of the spirit of service that has characterized the campaign and paid / feeling tribute to the men and women who had labored with him. Before closing he referred also to the unusual solidarity he had found among the workers and hoped that the co-operation manifested in the hospital campaign would live to accompliah much more as the years go by.

Geo. B. Milne a Good Campaigner.

B. L. Wilber, North Montpelier ... MR. FENCIL ON THE OUTCOME. Organizer Feels That Barre and Allied Towns Have Done Fine Work. "Barre and her allied towns have reason to feel proud over the success which 2.00 has attended their efforts in the past 10

er, you need yield to none in the matter of large giving and co-operative giving." -C. G. Fencil, director of the Barre hos pital campaign.

Mr. Fencil was performing the superhuman task of doing two things at once when a Times man called on him this forenoon. While he was busily getting ready to leave the city at noon, he Englishmen Love Freedom for All Extalked to the reporter and gave directions to the corps of assistants who are still engaged in cleaning up the odds and ends of the campaign. "The hospital panion J. Nilsen Laurvik writes an interesting and complete account of the operation is one of the evolutionary results of Y. M. C. A. propaganda. It involves all of the methods used in raising Y. M. C. A: subscriptions and more, women are using violence to gain the It is a highly systematized plan for cov-ering a large territory in a short term. In a word it is a practical application of the law of averages. Taking the fig-ures resulting from some of the other campaigns which have been conducted, I nature is the same in Barre as elsewhere, ten by an Englishman, a keen student This much I may say, however, your of human nature, who knows his own workers in Barre and outside towns possess a faculty for getting down to hard work that I would like to see em lated "Militancy did not come out of the

He rose to successive posi-1.00 tions of responsibility and was finally of this question conducted both in the 1.00 put in charge of the committee's finance ranks of the militants and the noninsight into the methods of raising funds ing that the English government is reap-60 for public institutions and civic pur- ing the fruits of its prolonged polity of poses. His experience in the Y. M. C. A. 1.60 field has been invaluable.

1,00 temperament that wins him friends these methods into existence, 2.00 wherever he goes. His energy, his tire-1.00 less devotion to duty and his unfail-2.00 ing good nature have stood him in ex-2.00 cellent stead. And 200 Barre workers, 1.00 or thereabouts, are ready to testify that these solid qualities have been best manifested when hope during the campaign .00 was at its lowest ebb.

To-day Mr. Fencil went to Boston, where he has been engaged to direct a campaign for funds for the Massachusetts state Progressive party. His work 1.00 there will last several weeks. After-5.00 wards he plans to go to his home in 2.00 Pennsylvania to stay with his family 2.00 for a time.

CAMPAIGN NOTES.

Team 22, captained by Mrs. B. W. 2.96 Hooker, kept up the campaign to the 1.90 last moment. Members of the team con-1.00 tributed home made candy which was 1.00 sold in the audience at the church last night. A tidy sum was realized.

Next Tuesday afternoon and evening. the management of the Pavilion theatre will tender one-half of its receipts to team 23, captained by Mrs. Grant A. 5,00 Lane. Patrons of the theatre may be 10.00 depended upon to help the hospital.

Efficient service has been rendered by the stenographers and clerks at the hospital headquarters. Long before the campaign was actually launched the ussistants were carrying out a vast numher of preliminary plans made by the director.

One of the indirect results of the cam-1.00 paign has been the diffusion of knowl-cdge concerning the hospital and its ses-2.00 sion. Many of the liberal subscribers 2.00 had never given the hospital a second 1.00 thought until the canvassers came 1.00 around with their cards. In nearly all 1.00 cases, it may be said, the doubting ones 1.00 were amenable to reason and open to 50 conviction the other way.
